

Israel Site Of WUSC Seminar

Approximately forty-five Canadian students and professors will attend the 1960 WUSC Seminar in Israel, next summer.

The candidates will be selected in January from some twenty-four Canadian universities and colleges, to participate in the forty-six day programme. They will assemble at the end of June for an orientation programme, and then proceed to Jerusalem for introductory sessions at the Hebrew University.

After these preliminary meetings they will be divided into smaller groups, to spend two weeks at work camps in the various kibbutzim, or collective settlements, which dot the plains and the Negev wasteland.

The final three week Seminar, consisting of lectures, panel discussions, study groups and field trips, will take place in Jerusalem. The proposed theme for the Seminar is "Israel-Drama of Return and Reconstruction". The programme will include an examination of the economic, cultural, sociological, historical and political aspects of life in Israel, and field trips will permit the students to pursue their own specialized areas of study.

A number of students from other countries will be invited to participate in the Seminar, which is the eleventh in a series initiated by WUSC in 1948. Seminars have previously been held in France, Germany, Holland, India, Japan, Ghana, Yugoslavia and the West Indies.

Throne Speech Mentions Nothing New On Grants

MCWA Panel Discussion

— Ed Stahlberg

Nothing new on provincial grants to universities was announced as this fall's Quebec legislative session got underway with the speech from the throne yesterday.

The Throne Speech did not make any particular reference to Premier Sauve's scheme to give statutory grants to Quebec Universities. Neither did it mention the Premier's plan to guarantee all loans that these universities may make to improve their facilities.

Aiming at the consolidation of Quebec's cultural heritage, the government decided to inaugurate new projects concerning: increased colonization activity, boosted farm loans, rural electrification, and drainage work.

In reference to education in his speech, Lieutenant Onésime Gagnon said:

"Education, a strictly provincial responsibility, is one of my government's foremost preoccupations. The concomitant problems are not the result of inertia or of neglect, but of the expansion which education has undergone in the last fifteen years. The government will seek your authorization for means to stabilize the finances of our educational institutions at all scholastic levels. To enable our people fully to benefit from the development of our natural resources, it is essential that a parallel development be maintained in the field of education."

FEDERAL GRANTS

Still, no mention has been made of the federal grants, totaling 25 million dollars being held in trust for Quebec universities by the government at Ottawa. Since the late Premier Maurice Duplessis frowned on them as intrusions into provincial affairs, seven years ago, Quebec universities have received no financial aid from other than the provincial donations.

Earlier in the year Premier Sauve announced publicly that he would bring down legislation making provincial grants statutory on the "first day of the session". Since the first official day is occupied by the Throne Speech and is followed by a debate on the Speech, the promised legislation will probably be introduced only late next week.

MCWA: Smithies Addresses Public

by CHARLES SISE

The McGill Conference on World Affairs is now in its third day with the delegates slated to discuss the "Problems of Political Development and the Function of Government in the Underdeveloped Countries of Afro-Asia". Highlight of today's program is the address by Professor Arthur B. Smithies of Harvard University to the delegates and guests at 9 pm in Redpath Hall.

Yesterday, the round table discussion dealt with the social and economic problems faced by the emergent nations of Afro-Asia. Over 100 delegates, who have come to McGill from all parts of Canada and Eastern United States, took part in these talks.

CIVIC RECEPTION

This afternoon, after the last round table session, all delegates and observers will be the guests of the City of Montreal at a special Civic Reception in City Hall. The delegates will be received by His Worship Mayor Sarto Fournier and Madame Fournier at 4:45 pm. After the reception the members will attend a banquet in Douglas Hall. Activity then moves to Redpath Hall for the Third Plenary Session of the Conference and an address by Dr. Arthur Smithies.

SMITHIES TO SPEAK

Dr. Arthur B. Smithies, Professor of Political Economy at Harvard University, former Chief of the Economic Board of the Bureau of Budget in the United States and former Director of the Fiscal and Trade Policy Division of the Economic Cooperation Administration, will address all delegates and interested members of the general public.

J. P. Sahni, Indian Delegate to the U.N., Dr. Robert Good, an authority on American Foreign Policy, and Professor of Political Science Keith Callard were featured in a lively panel discussion last night on "Afro-Asia and the Cold War".

Dean Frost of the School of Divinity chaired the event. Professor Callard was originally slated as chairman, but Ernest Gross, an intended panel member, fell suddenly ill and Dr. Callard filled the vacancy. Dean Frost also volunteered his services at the last moment.

J. P. Sahni spoke most of the evening from the point of view of India and proposed that in one respect he was thus speaking for Afro-Asia, in that India represented a laboratory in which common Afro-Asian problems were experimented on for possible solutions. He defended India's

(and Afro-Asia's) policy of non-participation in the Cold War. He emphasized the futility of Afro-Asian states entering, as separate entities, the Cold War dispute. They would have no influence whatever on the bigger powers, since, stated Sahni, "they are proud . . . they aspire to the moon". Sahni stated that, though India is a democratic country, it fits into neither of the segments of conflict. Though India seems neutralistic and negative in its faltering and compromising, it is really positive and aggressive in its pursuit of peace, which cannot be attained by Cold War.

Professor Callard stated toward the beginning of the evening "If aggression takes place, it affects all of us". He believed non-involvement to be a betrayal of moral principle, citing India as being especially guilty. Later he did not emphasize this moral laxity, but concluded only that no country can be indifferent to the ultimate outcome of the Cold War.

Ottawa U Will Revise Constitution and Manual

OTTAWA (CUP) — A plan for a committee to study the proposed student constitution, and the controversial student manual at the University of Ottawa was announced this week, by a student spokesman.

Headed by the student president, the committee will consist of both student newspapers, (French and English), a representative of NFCSU, a professor of law, and a professor of political science.

COUNCIL MEETING

Decision to study the two documents came on the heels of a student council meeting last weekend. During the meeting, President André Ouellet was mandated to make, "the necessary revisions", in the student constitution before the next council meeting in December.

Suggestions to revise the constitution were contained in a letter sent to the council by Father Léonard Ducharme, dean of students, in reply to council's request for suggestions, additions or deletions.

His "observations" were classed in three categories: changes which must be made; changes which, "will enable the university to accord the constitution an approval that will carry no reserve", and changes suggested by the Department of Student Affairs.

The DSA, headed by Father Ducharme, is the university's agent in dealing with all student affairs including extra-curricular ones.

CHANGES MADE

Father Ducharme stated in his letter to council that the rejection of suggestions made by his department, "would have no influence upon the decision of the DSA regarding the approval of the constitution, but rejection would lessen the constitution's value and prove an obstacle to better administration."

Among the changes that must be made were the following:

The presence of a faculty advisor must be compulsory in all student associations; amendments to the constitution must be submitted to the DSA . . . such changes will not become valid before approval of DSA.

MODIFIED CONSTITUTION

Father Ducharme also stated in his letter that if a modified constitution, based on his observations, is submitted to the DSA prior to Jan. 6, 1960, it will be approved for this academic year.

The DSA will then, "be prepared to study a definitive constitution, and to approve it in the light of the standards established by the Student Manual."

African Project Announced

"Operation Crossroads-Africa", a work camp project in Africa, made up of 120 university students from North America, will be held this summer from June 15 to August 25. Among 10 places reserved for students from Canadian universities, there will be one for a suitable McGill student who is in the sophomore to postgraduate years.

The project, under the direction of Dr. James Robinson, a pastor in New York City and head of the work camp last year, will send students to various places in Africa, such as the French Cameroons, Togo-Dahomey, Liberia, and the Ivory Coast.

Application forms are available at the Chaplain's office, room 410, Dawson Hall. The selected student will be required to provide about $300 of the total cost.

ASUS: Is It Worth the Money?

We print today a letter from "Inquisitive Artsman" requesting certain information about the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society. Being inquisitive ourselves we took the trouble to do a little research on that organization.

According to its constitution, as last approved by the Students' Executive Council in 1954, the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society comprises all undergraduates of McGill working towards a B.A. or B.Sc. degree. Its most recent meeting, if we can judge correctly from our Daily files, was in the spring of 1954. According to its constitution, "The purpose of the Society shall be to foster spirit within the faculty of Arts and Science and to unite the students through its recreational and educational facilities". Despite the fact that the Society seems to have lacked anything of importance to discuss for five years, class representatives and the executive of the organization are still elected annually. Major source of revenue of the Society is the membership fee collected at the time the university tuition fees are paid. This should amount to about $2150 this year.

As regards the finances of the ASUS we print on this page the proposed budget for the year. Originally, another budget was proposed but turned down by the SEC. The new one, as approved by the ASUS executive, has yet to be presented to the Council for its approval.

A few words of explanation on some of the items was given the Daily by a member of the executive. The meal allowance goes to provide box lunches for the executive at meetings which are held at noon hour. The fifty dollars for "Sports" is used to finance Arts and Science teams in the intramural programme. The sum for the awards banquet covers a meal and awards for members of the executive, Arts and Science debaters, the organizers of the social functions and prominent athletes representing Arts and Science. The amount for education last year went into a special newspaper on the Arts and Science honours courses. It is not quite certain just how the money will be spent this year, but the executive is contemplating another newspaper on an educational topic. The graduate cocktail party, given for all graduating Arts and Science students at no direct cost to themselves, is an affair started last year. The $615 for clubs and societies goes toward sponsoring various organizations, jointly with the SEC.

Apart from the above described activities, the ASUS, in conjunction with the Debating Union, will this year be entering interfaculty debates after a lapse of one year. The date of the informal dance has not yet been selected but a stag is scheduled for January. The New Year's Eve dance will be presented again with a deficit in the neighborhood of $300 expected.

Perhaps a few words of comment are warranted on the ASUS and its activities. Indeed, many people have called the ASUS "the most do-nothing undergraduate society on campus". In light of past evidence, we tend to agree. And in regard to "fostering spirit" or even providing a programme of interest to a majority of the students in Arts and Science, the ASUS falls flat on its face. The first issue of the ASUS News appeared only yesterday, a full two months after registration, and to date, no faculty activity, except the sports programme, has been held. Questions such as "do the executive merit a $400 awards banquet?" come immediately to mind.

On the credit side of the fence we must point out that some of the proposed activities have considerable merit. But these must be judged for their relative worth in conjunction with the "fostering of spirit" and overall good of the students.

We feel it our duty to point out that nominations for class representatives to the executive close Friday at 5 pm, with elections planned for next Tuesday, two days prior to the SEC elections. (Incidentally, according to the ASUS constitution these elections should have been held within a month of the commencement of the fall term). While the proposed elections constitute an ideal time for the students in Arts and Science to elect representatives who will uphold a policy of greater benefit to the average student in the faculty, the executive, without these representatives, has by now finalized most of this year's programme.

It is high time something was done to remedy this undesirable state of affairs.

LETTERS accepted for publication in this column must bear the writer's name, faculty and year. Names will be withheld and pen names substituted if so desired. Please note that preference is given to letters which are typed (double-spacing). When space is limited, brevity is a virtue which will not be overlooked.

Inquisitive About ASUS Activities

Sir:

I have been a student at McGill in the faculty of Arts and Science for three years. In that time I have been assessed three dollars for the ASUS, as is every other student. Now, I would like to know just what does the ASUS do with this money?

Would it be possible to publish the budget of the ASUS so that we, the members might have some knowledge of how our money is being spent?

We cannot complain about broken election promises as none were made. I do feel, however, that the executive does have some responsibility to the students who elected it. So far as I know, it sponsors a New Year's Eve dance, and an awards banquet. Is this dance a success? Does it perhaps compare to the Engineers' Fall Informal? Does it make money, or lose money?

I would be most interested in finding out the answers to these questions.

No Place For Sadie Hawkins Week In Man's World

We the undersigned address this letter to the men of McGill University. However we do not mind if any female reads it — in fact we would appreciate it.

We propose that the Sadie Hawkins week suggested by Mr. Hargreaves and supported by that group of lovely young ladies, be scrapped. We are of the opinion that this is a man's world and it should be run by men. Women do not appreciate the fact that we let them vote. Now, in a most underhanded way they wish to ruin our social prestige. Who do those fickle creatures think they are?

Therefore we urge you men, and we mean men, to forget about such a foolish idea as the Sadie Hawkins week. We can't afford to lose our place in society. We must be the aggressors.

tra gave a special concert for students at reduced prices. Since all seats were priced equally it was anticipated that there would be no restriction in the choice of seats. This, indeed, turned out to be the case with only one discrepancy; the best two rows of the house were reserved. To our surprise and indignation we saw Students' Council members, etc., etc. ease themselves into the 'forbidden' seats while hundreds of other students were being politely turned away.

I would like to invite anyone of these able administrators to explain to us why they think they have priority and right above others when the Symphony itself makes no distinction but welcomes everyone alike. Perhaps they need to be reminded that their election to the various offices benefits no one more than themselves as it serves their ambitions. What concerns us, however, is that they show regard and respect and good fellowship for the student body by whose good grace they were voted in.

Ironically, the chairman of the Federation of Canadian University Students made a short speech during the intermission in which he urged students of Montreal's three universities present at the concert to fraternize while at the same time a barrier, thrown by a lot of selfish individuals, was somewhat out of tune.

The behaviour of our student leaders last Wednesday was unjust or, simply, in bad taste.

No repeat performance, please.

H. Langsam.

Liberals Challenge P.C.'s To Debate

Sir:

The Conservative "rebuttal" to my article which appeared in the Daily of November 6 was indeed interesting, to say the least. Notwithstanding the fact that the "answer" did not even mention my accusations regarding the National Gallery or the Civil Service, or the fact that every responsible economist in the country admits that the government must be following a tight money policy, while the government denies this, the "answer" was well laid out. Perhaps such divergent views can only be given the involved treatment that is rightfully theirs in a debate. The McGill Liberal Club invites the Campus P.C. Club to participate in a debate on the Diefenbaker Government's policies.

S.A.M. Hears Speaker; Commerce Sees Bakers

Mr. Don J. Newton, executive of the Northern Electric Company, will speak to the McGill Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management on "Business Methods" tonight, at 8 pm., in the Walter M. Stewart Room.

A prominent member of the Montreal senior chapter of S.A.M., Mr. Newton has had ten years experience in Production Planning, Scheduling and Control, Organization Planning and Business Methods. Mr. Newton has also studied in management seminars at the State University of Iowa, with the Industrial Management Society, the American Management Association and with S.A.M.

The September and October issues of the national magazine, "Advanced Management" will be distributed at the meeting. There will be free sandwiches and cokes. Any new members may sign up before the meeting begins.

BAKERIES VISIT

All Commerce Undergraduate Society members have been invited to participate in a tour of Weston Bakeries today from 2 to 4 pm. The tour's bus will depart from Redpath Museum at 2 pm. sharp.

Weston Bakeries is a multiple product organization, and is completely automatic. Of special interest is their new machinery. There is no charge for the tour.

This is the first in a series of tours sponsored by the C.U.S. Tours chairman Bill Tanner reports that a visit to Canadair is being planned for the near future.

McGill Profs Present High School Lectures

McGill's third annual series of lectures for high school students began last Saturday when Dr. G.R. Lowther of the McCord Museum spoke on "The Search For Early Man In North America".

The purpose behind the lectures, said Dr. R.V. Nicholls of the Department of Chemistry, chairman of the lecture committee, is, "to stimulate the interests of high school students in the various subjects taught at the university level". He pointed out that from these lectures the students can obtain some idea of the context of the courses and thus a background to help them choose their courses when they get to university.

However, Professor Nicholls stressed, "no attempt is made to enlist recruits for any particular course or curriculum". The lecturing professors are instructed to be completely objective and informative in their approach.

According to Professor Nicholls the lectures have been so successful that there would be "standing room only" at each one if the attendance were not controlled. The tickets are given to the various high schools (both Protestant and Catholic) on the basis of their grade eleven populations.

Beginning three years ago when only science topics were presented, the lecture series now is arranged to cover a wide range of subjects. This year there will be seven lectures in all of which three will deal with humanities and the other four with science subjects.

The idea of the lectures was originated by a number of people at the same time and the first committee was organized by Dr C.A. Winkler, Chairman of the Department of Chemistry.

DAILY SPORTS

Intramural Highlights

by ED BIERBRIER

FOOTBALL CONTINUES

We must begin with an apology for the last column which stated that the Phi Ep - Z.B.T. game was the last of the year. In reality, this was the first game of the Inter Fraternity Council championship tournament. All fraternities entered are reminded that it is up to the winning team to forward a written comment to the Daily. Otherwise results will not appear.

BASKETBALL

Eight games were scheduled for this past week. Only one default was recorded, Amalgams gaining credit for the win and Giants with the loss. The Med III and Architecture game was called off and is due to be rescheduled for a later date.

Med II A whipped the Omicrons 40-18. Wolff swished the hoop for ten points for the winners while Dave Pickersgill had four in a losing effort. The Turkeys handled the Psychos in fine fashion as they downed them 50-31. Lionel Margolick was the big gun for the victors as he sank twenty-one points. Other high scorers were Myron Echenberg with eleven, Brutus Schwartz, nine, and Peter Nathan who had six points. For the losers Hans Claus picked up fifteen points and Rod Cooper with ten.

PLUGGERS PULL WIN

The Pluggers were just too much for the Debs as they crushed them 58-21. As a matter of fact, Lachowicz alone defeated them by putting in twenty four points for the evening. Paul Harisomowicz and Tom Stell followed as they counted nine and eight points respectively. Routtenberg and Red McKinnon scored eleven and four for the Debs.

Seven players shared in the scoring parade as Med I edged out the Highball Bouncers of Engineering 34-33. The scorers were Dick Dutton (4), Tony Morrison (4), Neal Winn (4), Stan Page (3), Leon Kaufman (8), Marty Raff (6) and one anonymous with five. This was truly a team effort. Peter Hoisak led the Highball Bouncers by notching sixteen and Peter Duckworth was next by scoring seven points.

An interesting feature of the Med-Highball contest was that the losers thought they had the lead in the dying seconds of the game. They then proceeded to freeze the ball to the final buzzer. Only then did they discover that they had been on the short end of a 34-33 count.

SHYSTERS SHELLACK EXPLORERS

The Shysters took a commanding 30-1 lead at the end of the first half and went on to wrap up the win 54-5. The top man for the Shysters and leading in the intramural basketball scoring honours is George Rosenberg who dented the mesh for a thirty-one point effort. George, a former Redmen basketball first stringer popped in baskets almost every time he put his hand on the ball. It was not until Gary Sankoff and Ken Werner hit for two points a piece that the losers finally sank a ball. Amazingly, the losers were in trying until the very end.

COMMERCE COULDN'T COP IT

Irving Kirsch's six points were not sufficient as the Commerce team bowed to Med IIB 33-23. Bob Hyde, Don Campbell, and Mitch Halpern led the Meds to victory. They were good for eleven, seven, and five points respectively. Commerce scorers were Mel Wilansky who was behind Kirsch with five points. Stan Kivenko, Mike Pesner, and Pete Cundill each contributed four to the Commerce drive.

VOLLEYBALL

Preps topped the Whites of Arts and Science 15-7, 15-11 in straight sets. The Ayoubis similarly nipped the Carvers of Dentistry in straight matches. Their scores were 15-3 and 15-8.

Med I was the only team to take fifteen points in succession as they trounced the Bar Fliers of Law 15-0, 12-15, 15-2. The remaining contest witnessed Med 3 topple the Cavaliers of Engineering 15-7, 2-15, and 15-5.

ICE HOCKEY

The pucksters finally went out the Winter Stadium to usher in the new season. However only two games were played with several more to follow. The opening game of the season was featured by the powerful shots on net by the Shysters of Law. They dented the twine nine times in routing over the Engineers 9-1. Hawkes, assisted by Cape gave the Engineers their sole goal. Hogue was the first star on the ice for the Shysters with six points, consisting of three goals and three assists. Jim Grant had a goal and four assists, Angus, a goal and two assists, Carsley, a goal and an assist, and Bennett, Ferrabee, and Murray Greenwood who scored single goals.

MEDS SHUTOUT DENTS

Butsch and Sullivan blinked the red light once each as Med 2 shutout the Dents 2-0. Whittemore and Turnbull assisted in the game. This was the initial whitewash to be credited to a goaler this year. Today, Arts and Science take on Architecture at the Winter Stadium.

FLOOR HOCKEY

Seven games were played last night at the Currie Gym. The results were unavailable at press time for this issue. They will be published next week. Fourteen teams are listed for play and all saw action last evening.

CUFF NOTES

The draw sheet must be checked by the squash candidates and the Table Tennis dates will be posted in the Daily for contestants. Enthusiasm is high among all sports and the competition in all activities is very keen... With the proposed Metropolitan Centre to be built in Ville St. Laurent the question arises as what measures McGill has in mind regarding how revenue will replace the Alouettes' should they move out, which is highly likely. Director of Athletics, Harry Griffiths was unavailable at the present moment to comment on the upcoming situation. A statement is expected shortly.

Athletic Awards Presented At WAA Meeting

The Semi-Annual Open Meeting of the WAA was held Monday at 1 pm in the Common Room of RVC. The purpose of the meeting was to show the co-eds the general set-up of the WAA and how meetings are run and organized.

Nora Altimas, president of the WAA, introduced the members of the executive, announced the names of the Presidents of each different sports club in the organization and introduced some of the members of the Phys. Ed. Department who help to advise the WAA. The president of each club gave a report of the progress of her club and the result of the Intramural tournaments held this month.

Several athletic awards were presented by Miss Munro, head of the Athletics Department, for the 1958-59 session. The reason for the delay in these presentations was that no award may be given to a first year student unless she returns to McGill for the following academic year. Consequently several Freshmen were unable to accept their awards until now.

A Senior "M" was earned by making the Intercollegiate ranks and a Junior "M" for participating in Intramural play.

The list of Award-winners was as follows:

Janet Anderson — Junior M for Basketball.

Jo Denny — Senior M for Swimming.

Mary Farr — Senior M and Junior M for Basketball.

Martha Hurley — Junior M for Basketball.

Vicki Johnstone — Junior M for Basketball.

Chryse Miccas — Junior M for Basketball.

Jean Taylor — Senior M and Junior M for Basketball.

Judy Zeisler — Senior M and Junior M for Volleyball.

A total of 50 co-eds showed up at the meeting, and considering that McGill is attended by approximately 1300 women this is relatively a very poor show.

Pro Diver To Instruct Here

Prospective divers for the McGill swim team can be sure that they will receive top coaching in Canada, when Dr. Leopold Vigeant begins his role as Diving Coach at the Sir Arthur Currie Swimming Pool November 17.

Coach Vigeant, has a very impressive record indeed. After winning numerous Provincial and Canadian Championships while training at Palestre Nationale, Vigeant attended Ohio State on a diving scholarship, where he perfected the famous technique characterized by Ohio State, and hence predominant in Olympic diving circles. Vigeant was Canada's contributions in the 1950 New Zealand Canterbury Centennial Games. Lack of financial support from Canada prevented his entry in the 1952 Olympic Games.

Upon enrolment in the Institute of New York of Columbia University, Vigeant began coaching at the New York Athletic Club. His Professional diving career began when he signed a five-year contract with the Water Follies, an American show which tours throughout the United States. After only one season Vigeant was given the opportunity to dive for the New York Aquashow.

Any McGill students, interested in learning to dive, should contact coach Vigeant at the swimming pool Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 5 PM.
